

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA WILMINGTON

WATSON SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Faculty Searches: Assistant/Associate Professors

The University of North Carolina Wilmington (UNCW) is located in the historic, coastal, seaport community of Wilmington, which is ideally situated between the Cape Fear River and Atlantic Ocean. A community of about 100,000, Wilmington has an historic downtown that includes a dynamic arts community, unique shopping and fine dining; numerous parks, recreational facilities, and other shopping areas; and easy access to several beautiful ocean beaches. UNCW enrolls about 13,000 undergraduate and graduate students on its 640 acre campus and several extension sites. It is ranked by U.S. News and World Report as one of the top universities of its kind in the South and one of the top best values in the nation by both Kiplinger's and Forbes magazines.

The Watson School of Education (WSE) (www.uncw.edu/ed) is a growing school with about 70 tenure-track faculty members working in undergraduate and master's programs in the Departments of Early Childhood and Special Education, Elementary, Middle Grade and Literacy Education, and Instructional Technology, Foundations and Secondary Education, and master's and doctoral programs in the Department of Educational Leadership. It has extensive international programs and maintains active partnerships with 12 school districts in the region. In 2006 WSE received the Christa McAuliffe Excellence in Teacher Education Award from AASCU. We seek to prepare students and practicing professionals who are knowledgeable and skilled in educating learners from diverse backgrounds, seek to create equitable learning environments, and engage in collaborative relationships with colleagues, families, schools, and community agencies.

We are searching for outstanding teacher scholars to fill tenure-track faculty positions (assistant/associate professor) in the following areas, starting in August 2012:

- Elementary Education Generalist
- Elementary Education Mathematics Education
- Elementary Education Cultural Arts Education
- English as a Second Language Education

Doctorate in a closely related field is required or must be obtained within the first academic year of employment. Preference will be given to those candidates who have a demonstrated potential for scholarly productivity, evidence of public school and college level teaching excellence, eligibility for North Carolina licensure in the appropriate area, and strong commitment to and experience with P-12 partnership approaches.

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by November 7, 2011 but applications will be accepted until the positions are filled. To apply, please complete the online application process available at <http://consensus.uncw.edu>. A letter of application, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three (3) professional references should be addressed to the appropriate Search Committee and attached to the online application (i.e., not emailed, mailed or faxed). MS Word or Adobe PDF attachments are required. Transcripts are not necessary for the initial review but will be required of those who are invited to participate in phone interviews.

Please direct questions regarding the ELED positions to Dr. Tracy Hargrove, Chair, Department of Elementary, Middle Level and Literacy Education, at hargrovet@uncw.edu; and the ESL position to Dr. Eleni Pappamihiel, Department of Instructional Technology, Foundations and Secondary Education, at pappamihieln@uncw.edu. For more information, see also <http://www.uncw.edu/ed/jobs/index.html>.

UNCW is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty and staff. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply.